FARMERS CALLED MEET IN GROUPS

First District Conference Will Be Held at Metter On Last Tuesday in Month

A series of Farm Bureau training schools will be held in each congressional district in the state, beginning January 17, has been announced by H. L. Wingate, president of the Georgia Farm Bureau Federation. That for the first district is scheduled to be held at Metter on Tuesday, January 25th.

This is the second consecutive year these training sessions have been held. Last year, Farm Bureau headquarters report, widespread interest was created in the district conferences and the fact that membership in the organization showed an increase of 16,371 families in 1948. Mr. Wingate feels that the sessions will be well attended in 1949.

The first of a series will be held in Newnan on Monday, January 17, for the Fourth district. Other meetings scheduled include the Fifth district in Atlanta, January 18; Seventh district in Cartersville, January 19; Ninth district, Gainesville, January 20; Tenth district, Washington, January 21; Sixth district, Milledgeville, January 24; Eighth district, Waycross, January 26; Second district, Camilla, January 27, and Third district, Americus, January 28.

Fundamentals of Farm Bureau will demand the attention of county and community officers attending the conferences the announcement said. District director and vice-president of Georgia Farm Bureau Federation will preside at the training schools, and members of the state staff will participate in the proceedings.

The plans call for convening each conference at 10 o'clock in the morning with adjournment set for 1 o'clock.

H. L. Wingate, president of the GFBF, will be unable to participate in the district meeting because of legislative conferences in Washington and Atlanta. Mrs. Joe S. Ray, president of the Associated Women, and members of her board of directors will have a prominent part on the program at each meeting, Macon headquarters of the Farm Bureau has announced.

Members of the state staff who will appear on the program include H. R. Yandle, director of public relations; Wilson E. Stiles, director of organization; D. W. Strohbehn and Eaton Harden, field representatives.

VET POPULATION GROWS RAPIDLY

Expected To Reach Total of 550,000 Within Next Five Years, Cheatham Declares

Georgia's population of war veterans and their dependents, now approaching 450,000 in number, will be "in the vicinity of 550,000 in five years," according to C. Arthur Cheatham, state director of Veterans Service. He bases his estimate on the expectations of the armed services to increase in size by means of the draft and through volunteer enlistments.

"Our records show," Cheatham said, "that about 86 per cent of all claims of Georgia veterans are either filed or influenced by the State Veterans Service Offices. The increase in the number of ex-servicemen within the next five years will add to the duties of every office."

Cheatham estimates that the peak "work load of veterans' claims will not be reached until sometime after 1962. He declared that "undoubtedly" the federal government will provide some sort of educational opportunities for men entering the services now, but doubted that the benefits would be as sweeping as those provided by the so-called GI Bill of Rights.

With the number of contacts made by the Department of Veterans Service during the past fiscal year well over 600,000, Cheatham said he is preparing for an even greater amount of business during the next ten months and that "without question the department must seek to expand still further."

GEORGIANS URGED RESTRICT TRAVEL

State Board of Health Issues Statement Which Is Of Present Importance

It is thought that the increase in polio in northern South Carolina and in Georgia is due, in part, to spread from the highly epidemic areas of North Carolina. The Georgia State Department of Public Health has formulated the following policy:

1. All local health departments are advised to impose a "voluntary quarantine" which is as follows:

(a) Citizens are discouraged from traveling into North Carolina or northern South Carolina, or any area where people from these areas are likely to be.

(b) All persons should submit to a voluntary two-weeks' quarantine on their return for epidemic areas. (All of North Carolina should be considered an epidemic.)

(c) Entrance to this area of visitors from polio areas, unless their business is essential, should be prohibited.

2. It is also suggested that non-essential gatherings, especially of children, be restricted since the disease is apparently spread mainly by carriers through droplet transmissions emanating from the nose and throat.

3. It is assumed that there are 100-200 carriers of polio virus for every case that develops paralysis. Carriers are assumed to be infectious and contagious for two weeks, hence it is important to prevent exposure to or with the general population, those thought to be well in an area where cases are found.

If everyone is careful and follows the above admonitions, much will be accomplished in the protection of the community and each individual. We don't want polio. Please do your share by accepting your public health responsibility.

NEW PRESIDENT SUGGESTS SLOGAN

"Watch Statesboro Climb" Presented By Aldred As Watchword For The Year

"Watch Statesboro Climb in '49," will be the slogan of the Statesboro Chamber of Commerce this year, if the new president, Walter Aldred, has his way about the activities.

Mr. Aldred, in his installation discussion on the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday, predicted a good year for Statesboro and Bulloch county, and ended his remarks by saying "Watch Statesboro Climb in '49." The some 40 members present elight in the progressiveness of the idea. Then, too, Mr. Aldred wanted to know why it would not be possible to give an accounting of "It Did Happen" in Statesboro. His idea was for the local press to carry such stories weekly. Another item that should be accounted for, according to Mr. Aldred, is the recognition of members that are contributing to the community's progress from time to time.

When the usual committees are selected, Mr. Aldred expressed the hope that each of them will present one or more programs during the year at the semi-monthly meetings so that other may know what they are doing. The entertainment committee, he thought, should play an important part in the various meetings.

Other ideas suggested by various members for activities during 1949 included increased advertising on U. S. highways in this area, especially 301; try to procure a mainline railroad for the community; sell the Chamber of Commerce to the local people; indicate in several ways the name of the town on the main streets so that passing tourists will know when they get here, and to provide lumination for certain highway signs around town.

Committee chairman named at this meeting were Robert Donaldson on publicity, L. A. Waters on membership and Hoke Brunson on finances. Mr. Brunson immediately asked Buford W. Knight, W. H. Burke and Alfred Dorman to serve with him. The other members of these committees, along with the other committees, will be named later.

Costal Empire Scouts Meet In Savannah

Coastal Empire Council of Boy Scouts will hold its annual meeting on January 24 as a supper meeting at the DeSoto Hotel. Preliminary arrangements for the meeting have been made by a special committee which met Wednesday morning, December 29th, to get plans started. The committee is composed of Jack Levy, chairman; D. C. Ball, James Holland, Arthur Solomon Jr., Harry Gurley, Roland Wilbur and Hedley B. Cammack.

Scout leaders and their wives from the fourteen and a half counties in the council will be in attendance. Council officers and members of the executive board for 1949 will be elected. Special awards to outstanding Scouts will be presented and reports of activities for the year will be heard. Mr. Levy states that an outstanding speaker will be secured for the occasion. Gen. J. B. Fraser, president of Coastal Empire Council, will present a report which is expected to show considerable progress of Scouting within the council during 1948.

Not New Faces, But New Leaders

WHO SHALL PAY FOR PUBLIC ROADS?

All Who Benefit From Roads Should Bear the Proper Share of Cost

Atlanta, Dec. 31.—Challenging the philosophy that "only those who use the highways should pay for them," E. L. Jalliet, president of the Georgia Rural Letter Carriers Association, declared in a statement issued here today that "The motorist is not the only one who benefits from improved roads and streets, and should not be asked to shoulder the entire cost."

"The general public derives substantial benefits from these improvements," Mr. Jalliet said, "and it is only fair and just, therefore, that the cost of the different classes of roads and streets should be distributed among that group of taxpayers in proportion to the benefits each group enjoys."

"To say that only those who actually use the highways should pay for them is like saying that only those who have children in school should pay school taxes, or that only those who have a fire should support the fire department."

"In our state there are 1,176 communities which are not situated on any railroad line and consequently depend entirely on automobiles, trucks and buses to provide their transportation and to haul all their goods and supplies. Everyone of the inhabitants of these communities relies on, and benefits from, the roads and streets which connect them with the rest of the state. These roads are the arteries of life for all in the communities, and it seems reasonable that all should bear their proper and appropriate share in the cost of maintaining and improving them."

Mr. Jalliet pointed out that the Georgia Rural Letter Carriers Association is one of many member organizations of the Georgia Highway Users Conference which recently adopted a "Ten Point Platform for Progressive Highway Development." Proper apportionment of highway costs among all who benefit is one of the planks in that platform.

Clark Named Chairman For U. S. Savings Bonds

Jackson P. Dick, chairman of the state advisory committee, has announced the appointment of Reuben G. Clark, president Savannah Bank & Trust Company, as district chairman of the First U. S. Savings Bonds district, embracing all counties in the First Congressional district.

Mr. Clark will have the support of the banks and business leaders, industrialists and farmers and merchants in the sale of U. S. Savings Bonds throughout the district. He will continue as chairman for Chatham county, but will also work with the present chairmen in the various counties throughout the First Savings Bonds district.

Mighty oaks from little acorns grow. Your financial security will grow from small beginnings by systematic saving through U. S. Savings Bonds.

WAS THIS YOU?

You are a young matron, employed down town. You have dark brown hair. Wednesday you wore a silk floral print on a black background with black shoes and a three-quarter length coat of small black and white checks. You have a young daughter.

If the lady described will call at the Times office she will be given two tickets to the picture, "Appointment for Peggy," showing today and Friday at the Georgia Theater. After receiving her tickets, if the lady will call at the Statesboro Floral Shop she will be given a lovely orchid with compliments of the proprietor, Zolly Whitehurst.

The lady described last week was Mrs. Prince Preston. She called for her tickets and orchid late Thursday afternoon, and left early the following morning for Washington.

"Ring out the old—ring in the new!" is a familiar cry from the long ago which applies particularly to the period through which we have recently passed.

There is always a certain measure of solemnity in the passing of time and the changing of conditions which enter into the incidents of public and personal lives. There are few changes made which are devoid of pleasure and pain about in equal measure—that which brings pleasure and profit to one, almost inevitably carries elements of suspense and disappointment to others.

Now, in the court house today there is a spirit of cheer—not so many new faces, to be sure, but a change of responsibilities and honor.

Take, if you will, that group in the clerk's office. The head of that department has long labored as she worked her way toward the station she now occupies as responsible head of the organization.

Clerk Hattie Powell, elected by an overwhelming vote of the people in the county primary last spring, has been a responsible and efficient public servant for the past twelve years, having gone there as an employee of F. I. Williams, then clerk of the court in 1936. Later she retained her position under the recent retiring Clerk O. Lester Brannen. She has been diligent, dependable and modest in the discharge of her duties during all these years. Today she is not a new face—but a new leader in the clerk's office.

In another corner room, also, there is a familiar face—two, if you speak accurately. Mrs. W. W. DeLoach is now tax commissioner, having been chosen from a large field of aspiring candidates in the late primary. She had previously served in the office under her late husband, W. W. DeLoach. In 1935 and also served as assistant under the retiring commissioner, J. L. Zetterwer. Called back on her own responsibility, she takes up her duties for a term of four years. Not a new face, but a new responsibility. And add to this situation the chief assistant in the office today—Mrs. Elizabeth Donaldson—who has been called back to a post which she originally had held in her own right twenty-four years ago. It will be recalled that her late husband, W. Bruce Donaldson, was nominated for the office in the county primary in 1924, but died before the election. Thereupon his wife was named in a special primary in which she had opposition, and served one term in that office in her own responsibility. It is still a matter of comment that she was a diligent and fearless official—she collected taxes in a manner which set a precedent which has been helpful in the years since.

Thus in the tax commissioner's office are two new responsible personages—but faces which are not new.

Step, then, around to the school superintendent's office and observe H. P. Womack, returning after a lapse of eight years to duties with which he was so long familiar. A familiar face returned to a former responsibility.

At the sheriff's office—no changes, Stothard Deal remains for a second term, to which he was renominated without opposition in the county primary of last spring.

At the ordinary's office F. I. Williams likewise for a second term which was his without opposition.

Fred W. Hodges is not a new face in the office of chairman of the board of county commissioners. He has served there for the past twelve years. He had opposition most of the time—but he won in his race last primary by a vastly enlarged majority.

And there is Judge Cohen Anderson—in office as judge of the city court unopposed in the last primary.

What of the justice of the peace? Well, Judge Sylvester Alderman sits snugly at the desk to which he was recently re-elected by the people of the court house district without opposition.

"Ring out the old—ring in the new."

OF THE LEAGUE TROPHY

The Junior Boys' city league played their last football game of the season last week on the first day of the new year. The Red Caps fought hard against the last-place Cardinal team that had worked itself up from the bottom place in the league to eligibility to play the season champions for the championship. The Red Cap half-back, Robert Waters, ran across in the first period to score and Captain Jimmy Jones ran the extra point. The Cards came back in the second period and scored on a 15-yard pass from Gene Newton to L. M. Newirth into the end zone. The point was no good and the score stood 7 to 6 at the half. Jimmy Jones came back for the Red Caps in the third quarter and ran over to pay dirt, but failed to make the extra point. The game ended with Red Caps 13, Cards 6.

This ended the season for the Junior League and a Red Cap team that had stayed on top all the way had won a richly deserved victory. The Red Caps almost lost out in the playoff, but came back to beat the second place Bull Dogs by one point to win the right to play for the trophy.

The trophy being by the American Legion will be awarded to the team at an early date with appropriate ceremonies.
